

J. M. MILLER.

MARCH 23, 1860.—Ordered to be printed.

---

Mr. SEDGWICK, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, made the following

REPORT.

The Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the petition of J. M. Miller, asking for the appointment or calling together of a commission to re-examine an alleged improvement in steam boilers invented by him, being a surface condenser, do respectfully report:

That no evidence accompanies said memorial tending to prove that any necessity exists for the appointment of such a commission, or that the public interests would be thereby promoted, and they therefore recommend that the prayer of said petitioner be denied.

J. M. MILLER

March 15, 1891—Ordered to be printed.

Mr. Speaker, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, made the following report:

REPORT

The Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the petition of J. M. Miller, asking for the appointment of a commission to investigate the efficiency of the naval service, and to report thereon, do hereby report:

That no evidence of incompetency and inefficiency has been found, and that the public interests would be thereby promoted, and they therefore recommend that the prayer of said petitioner be denied.
